Reflections of the Soul
By Elliot Nimmer
Point Beach State Forest

A large, weathered piece of driftwood is the central focus, partially submerged in shallow, clear water. The wood is dark brown with prominent, wavy grain patterns and a glossy, wet surface. Several smooth, rounded stones in various colors (grey, blue, white, and brown) are nestled in the hollows and along the length of the driftwood. The water is shallow, revealing a rocky bottom. The background shows more water and some distant rocks.
